

JOB POSTING:

Public School 147 The Isaac Remsen School for Environmental Engineering is the proud home of the first and only Japanese Dual Language Program within the New York City Department of Education. Located in the highly desirable area of East Williamsburg/Bushwick Brooklyn, NY, PS147 is looking for two (2) highly motivated and dedicated Japanese Teachers who share our values for equity and excellence in service to all students.

Students receive daily Japanese Language home language arts and literacy instruction through the subjects of Science and Social Studies.

Opportunities for creativity through multi-disciplinary, hands-on learning experiences that foster meaningful and real-world connections are welcomed.

At PS147, Japanese Teachers work collaboratively with colleagues to ensure alignment of the cross-grade curricula, implementation of pedagogical best practices and ensuring engaging learning experiences for students.

PS147 holds strong partnerships with the New York City Japanese community, including Consulate General of Japan in NY/LA and Japan Foundation NY/LA.

Additionally, our community is supported by dedicated families, elected officials, community-based organizations, volunteers, and New York City Department of Education leaders who work collaboratively to support our program currently in its sixth year.

Our school has had the distinct privilege of welcoming on two occasions Ms. Akie Abe, wife of Shinzo Abe, the former Prime Minister of Japan.

Teaching Requirements:

. Education Degree: Teacher license as an Elementary School Teacher or Teacher of Japanese as a Second Language

- . Bilingual Extension, preferred
- . Minimum of 3-5 years teaching experience
- . Native or near-native fluency in Japanese, as well as strong communication skills in English
- . Experience with inquiry-based, preferred
- . Experience with curriculum development, preferred
- . Opportunity to work as a Substitute Teacher is an option
- . Interviews are currently occurring and on a rolling basis
- . Anticipated hires projected for September 2021
- . Opportunity for full medical benefits, Teachers Retirement System pension package and membership with the United Federation of Teachers in NYC

To apply, please email your resume to Principal Sandra Noyola at SNoyola@schools.nyc.gov

Mail to: SNoyola@schools.nyc.gov